Soybeans and Tobacco May Be Salvaged

Officials Say Rainfall Came Too Late For Some Crops

While local farmers will be getting a reprieve from the rigors of a drought-stricken summer with emergency farm loans, local agriculture officials say the current rainfall came too late for some crops, particularly corn.

However the rain may prove to be the saving grace for soybeans and tobacco, agriculture officials point out.

Calloway, along with three other Western Kentucky counties, is on the list of those whose farmers can get low interest farm loans due to the drought. (See related story, this page.)

Also, due to the severe drought conditions experienced here this summer, Calloway County School System is making available free or reduced lunches under special hardship cases due to temporary losses of income.

Calloway County Extension Agent Ted Howard said today that although "rains came too late for corn," the rainfall now will probably help soybeans and tobacco.

Regardless, local farm officials say losses here on corn, tobacco, soybeans, popcorn, hay and pasture could top the $10-million mark. And Howard says that may be a conservative estimate.

"A lot of our early corn is harvested already and it's very very poor, about a 25 bushel per acre yield," Howard said. This county in good harvest years will average 90-100 bushels an acre. He estimates the overall average on corn will be from 40-50 bushels per acre. The county agent estimates corn losses here will be over $4-million.

That, coupled with estimated $3-4-million losses on soybeans, another $1-million loss for popcorn and $1-million loss on tobacco, would put the total over $10-million, Howard said.

He explained that soybeans, which went into what he calls a "dormant stage" during the drought, will benefit from the rain, "provided we don't get an early frost." An early frost, he said, will cut production.

The county agent said the rain will help tobacco fill out in time for cutting, which will probably begin within the next week.

Howard said the drought here may "save the price or put it slightly above last year" on dark-fired tobacco. That is because Calloway is one of the few Kentucky and Tennessee counties noted for dark fired and the market for the tobacco is small compared to burley.

Farmers who put out corn here will not be so lucky due to bumper crop predictions in the Cornbelt, Howard said.

This summer's long dry spell lasted from mid-May until mid-August and left in its wake cornfields literally scorched. Howard said some farmers locally are mentioning they may not pick what corn is in the fields. Other farmers have already turned their soybean fields under and will later sow wheat or a cover crop, Howard said.

Officials with Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce point out the farm losses "represent a terrific direct monetary loss" which may force many farmers into bankruptcy. Local banks are expected to cooperate "but it can not be enough to forestall foreclosure on many farmers. Anticipating a large crop, many bought new and heavier equipment. They now stand to lose it all," Chamber officials say.

Estimates are that farming here produces about 25 percent of the total income.

County Farmers Eligible For FHA Emergency Loans

Farmers in Calloway County, as well as four other western Kentucky counties, are now eligible for emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration, according to a declaration issued by William E. Burnette, state FHA director.

Farmers in Calloway, Livingston, Lyon and Trigg counties can get low-interest FHA loans as a result of the summer-long drought that has destroyed many crops. Ohio County farmers can receive loans to replace damage from Sunday's high wind and hail.

Bob Reynolds, FHA farmer program specialist, said this morning that Calloway County farmers will be eligible for actual loss loans or production loans because of a reduction in crop yields. These loans will be up to $250,000 with 3 percent interest and 5 percent for losses of greater value.

Major adjustment loans will be available with 8 1/2 percent interest. These loans are for farmers who have difficulty meeting payments on equipment or real estate, or who need to be reorganized.

Reynolds said that as of this week the state FHA director has the power to designate areas for emergency loans as a result of natural disasters. Prior to this, the secretary of agriculture in Washington designated the areas acting on a recommendation from the governor of the state.

Calloway Countians may apply for these loans at the Farmers Home Administration Office in the Agricultural Service Center on Highway 45 off Jintown Road in Mayfield. A representative from that office is in Murray from 8 a.m. to noon at the Bel-Air Shopping Center.

TAKES OATH — The new Commonwealth Detective for the 42nd Judicial District, William "Bill" Pinkston, looks down at a copy of the Kentucky Constitution as Calloway County Circuit Judge James Lassiter delivers the oath of office. Standing with them is Commonwealth Attorney Ron Christopher. Lassiter delivered the oath to the 25-year-old University of Kentucky Law School graduate Tuesday afternoon. Pinkston replaces Tom Scott who resigned the detective's job. Pinkston and his wife Rebecca live in Murray.

Chamber Supports Sewer Plant

A resolution in support of the construction of a new sewage disposal plant to serve the city of Murray has been adopted by the Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce board of directors.

The proposed new disposal plant, which has been outlined in a recently completed supplemental facilities study conducted by Chester Engineers, would be located downstream from (north of) the present plant in the Clarks River bottom.

The Murray Common Council approved the supplemental study at a special meeting Thursday, Aug. 24, on an 11-1 vote.

One of the options outlined in the study calls for an addition to be built on to the present treatment plant at the outskirts of the city on Ky. 94. The second option involves the construction of a completely new treatment facility at a new location.

According to the projections of Chester Engineers, which conducted the study for the city, the addition to the present plant will cost approximately $5.7 million. The construction of a new plant to serve the city would cost $7.4 million, the engineers said.

It was pointed out at the council meeting that the addition to the present plant should serve the city for approximately seven to ten years while the construction of the new plant should serve the city for at least 30 years.

If the study is approved by the federal Environmental Protection Agency, both options would qualify for 75 percent of the cost to be paid with federal grant funds.

The local bond outlay for the addition to the present plant would amount to $1.4 million, according to the projections, while the bond outlay for the construction of a new plant would amount to $1.8 million.

The Chamber's resolution says, in part:

"...the cost to the consumer would average 46 cents per month more than present billing for a new plant and would ultimately result in a savings to the consumer. . . . The evidence indicates the possibility of serving a large area of industrial property that cannot be served at the present location thereby creating more jobs and a sounder tax base.

"...The Murray-Calloway County Chamber of Commerce, representing more than 300 businesses and professional people, and the Murray-Calloway County Industrial Foundation, representing 289 businesses, go on record as favoring the selection and construction of a new plant in the Bee Creek Area as soon as feasible."

The resolution, adopted at the board's meeting this week, is signed by chamber president Leonard Vaughn, industrial foundation president Max Hurt, and James L. Johnson, executive vice-president of the chamber.

A public hearing has been scheduled for Tuesday, Sept. 5, at which time local citizens will be given the opportunity to comment on the study. An explanation of the two proposals is also expected to be offered at that time.

According to a chamber spokesman, several business owners are expected to appear at the public hearing in favor of the construction of a new disposal plant.

TVA Head Turns Down Rate Hike

By MATT YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Tennessee Valley Authority Chairman S. David Freeman today turned down a recommended 4 1/2 percent hike in electric rates and ordered a freeze on the nation's largest utility's hiring.

"I'm going to turn it down now and for the rest of this year," Freeman said of the rate proposal at his monthly executive meeting. "We need to demonstrate that agency is in control of its costs."

Employment practices, he said, are not under control and he ordered an immediate hiring halt. The seven-state utility employs 46,000 persons, about half on power plant construction projects.

Freeman said, however, that a rate increase may be needed next spring.

TVA's power officials requested the increase two weeks ago to raise $120 million and balance the books of the agency's $2.89 billion power program next year.

Freeman acted after Sen. James Sasser, D-Tenn., appeared at the meeting to urge rejection of the hike. The chairman said he also was persuaded by testimony at hearings conducted in seven cities in four states on Monday night.

The rejection of the hike leaves TVA with a projected deficit of $74 million for the fiscal year ending Oct. 1, 1979.

TVA raised its rates 8 1/2 percent last month and 17 percent in July 1977. Freeman has said he is reluctant to approve another increase unless power officials can demonstrate that costs absolutely cannot be cut by a similar amount.

The proposed hike would add $1.20 per 1,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity used. TVA rates climbed to more than $30 per 1,000 kwh for the first time this month, but are still well below the national average of $43 for the same amount of power.

Widespread opposition to the hike, particularly from senior citizens on fixed incomes, surfaced at public hearings the agency conducted in seven cities Monday night.

tensive renovation of the old Waterfield Student Union Building and a three-level addition to the front of it. It will have a book capacity of 464,600 volumes and a seating capacity of 657 in its 96,480 square feet of space. The project was begun in November 1976.

Hazel Councilmen Discuss Grant Given To City

Discussion of an $838 grant presently being administered at the Community Center in Hazel was the main topic at last night's meeting of the Hazel City Council and the Hazel Community Center Committee.

Joe Johnson, administrative assistant to County Judge/Executive Robert O. Miller, met with the group at the City Hall in Hazel.

The community center grant provides for ceilings being lowered and insulation installed.

A Title V Older Americans Act Grant for the renovation of multi-purpose senior citizens centers was also discussed. Hazel has applied for $11,451 to be used on the Hazel center. Money will be used to address fire regulation codes and 504 handicap access regulations at the center.

Those meeting with Johnson were Hazel Mayor Joe Thompson; Dewey Ely, William Pratt, Ira Morgan, council members; John Shendock, council member and Hazel Community Center board member; and Tim Scruggs, Janice Wilkinson and Sandra Gallimore, community center board members.

Special Self-Therapy

Group Formed To Cope With Child Abuse Problems

A chapter of Parents Anonymous is now being formed in Murray and will meet on Mondays from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. at the Immanuel Lutheran Church, 100 South 15th Street, Murray.

This special self-therapy group has been led in the organization by Dr. Mark Singer, assistant professor in the Division of Social Work in the Department of Professional Studies at Murray State University.

Dr. Singer has written the following article which will be the first in a series on the self-therapy group:

"Many of us have become increasingly aware of the fact that child abuse is a leading social problem in our country today. It is a condition which cuts across many family types and economic levels and is brought about by a number of different internal and external factors bearing on parents and families. It is a situation which exists here in Calloway County and concerns many lay and professional people alike.

"To be sure children are not the only victims of child abuse for parents and families also undergo a great deal of inner turmoil and stress. Now with the development of a Parents Anonymous Chapter here in Calloway County there will be a community resource available for parents wanting to improve their relationships with their children and possibly control what may be a child abuse problem.

"Parents Anonymous is an organization of parents who are either learning how to overcome abusive tendencies or trying to bring about better parent-child relationships. It is a group of parents organized to assist one another by coming together on a weekly basis and sharing their concerns, ideas, problems, and suggestions so as to attain greater control over their behaviors towards their children. Parents Anonymous allows parents an opportunity to think about the different options available to them before having to abuse a child.

"Parents Anonymous includes crisis intervention and on going help through weekly meetings with a professional sponsor. The group is one in which a parent can involve himself anonymously without fear of judgment, social stigma, rejection, or punitive actions. It serves parents experiencing parent-child difficulties of an abusive nature.

"A chapter of Parents Anonymous is now being formed in Murray and will meet at the Immanuel Lutheran Church, 100 South 15th Street, Murray, on Monday evenings from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. If you know of any parents who may benefit from being part of such a group, please tell them of our program and encourage them to call us at either of the following numbers: Weekdays at 759-1792 and weekends at 759-4875 or 753-9261.

"Anyone wishing to give referrals to this service may call the above numbers. Child care is also provided for parents wishing to attend meetings and not having access to baby sitting services."

Student Charged With Burglary

Murray City Police have charged a 19-year-old Murray State University student with burglary in connection with a break-in at Uncle Lee's Sporting Goods in the Olympic Plaza.

According to a police spokesman, city police Tuesday charged John Christopher Turner, 19, Mayfield, with second degree burglary after they caught Turner inside Uncle Lee's early Tuesday morning.

Police said a window in the store "had been kicked out," and further investigation led police to apprehend Turner inside the store. The spokesman said police caught the defendant with two shotguns and a quantity of shells.

Turner is currently in Calloway County Jail in lieu of bond, the police spokesman said.

Police have also charged Mark Smith, described as in his early 20s, South 15th, Murray, with trafficking in Demerol. Charged on warrants Monday, Smith is currently out on a $10,000 bond, a police spokesman said.

No Free Exam For Her Feet

DEAR ABBY: I'm new in town. My feet were giving me a lot of trouble, so I looked in the yellow pages for a foot doctor. I knew some corns had to be removed, and one toe felt as if I had an ingrown toenail.

I selected a podiatrist who was located on the bus line and whose name I could pronounce. I phoned him and made an appointment.

When I got there, I showed him my feet and told him I didn't want him to DO anything until he gave me an estimate on how much he would charge to do what had to be done.

He got a disgusted look on his face and said, "Lady, I treat patients—I don't give estimates." Then he practically threw me out of his office.

Was I out of line to ask him for an estimate? If he charged more than I could afford to pay, I would have tried another doctor. Isn't that better than letting him do the work and then making him wait for his money?

OUT OF LINE, OR NOT?

DEAR OUT: When you booked the appointment, you should have asked how much the doctor charged for an office visit. No one should expect a free examination, which is what an "estimate" entails. All a professional person has to sell is his (or her) knowledge and time.

DEAR ABBY: I plan to announce my engagement soon, and my problem is this: My fiancé's mother wants us to have a big wedding, and I don't want a big wedding.

My fiancé's family is quite wealthy, and his mother says they will pay for everything. Abby, I don't want to accept this kind of a gift from my future in-laws. Besides, aren't the bride's parents supposed to put on the wedding? Mine can afford only a simple little family affair, which is all I really want.

My fiancé's mother already has a "tentative guest list" of 300. She says she "owes" so many people, and she has friends who will not invite HER to their children's weddings if she doesn't invite THEM to hers. (She's already picked out the bridesmaids' dresses. How about that?)

Another thing. She told me she wanted me to have a baby right away because all her friends have grandchildren and she is way behind. Abby, I intend to teach school while my husband finishes law school, and we don't plan to have a baby "right away."

What should I do? My fiancé is in the middle. He doesn't want to hurt his mother, but he doesn't want me to be unhappy either.

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: I think you are right in refusing to allow your future mother-in-law to use your wedding to repay her social obligations. Tell her as respectfully as you can that YOUR parents will put on the wedding. And make clear that you will have a family when YOU decide you want one.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I were divorced several months ago. The divorce was on very friendly terms, and we see each other occasionally at social gatherings, etc. It is very awkward to introduce her as my "ex-wife."

Is there a less embarrassing way?

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Yes. Introduce her by name only, and skip her marital history—unless somebody asks.

Who said the teen years are the happiest? For Abby's new booklet "What Teenagers Want to Know," write Abby: 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Enclose $1 and a long, stamped (25 cents), self-addressed envelope, please.

Attitudes Toward Obesity May Be Changing

Q. Mrs. A. P. writes that she is upset by the attitude of her physician because he continues to insist that she reduce her weight, "to what it is supposed to be." She says that she feels better when she is slightly overweight and that she does not want to "go through the ordeal of dieting only to regain the lost weight in a few months." She asks for comment.

A. While I am reluctant to upset your relationship with your physician, you should have a frank talk with him or her, if you have not already done so, about your feelings on this matter of dieting.

It is customary for a physician to provide information to his patients, such as the facts about obesity in your case, and to help his patients make their own decisions. A physician usually refrains from insisting on treatment which is not wanted by the patient, unless the issues involved are life and death matters.

Obesity is a very complicated condition, and failures in its management are common. They are even more frequent when the patient refuses to accept the treatment.

Weight excess up to 10 percent above the norm is often quite well tolerated, especially by women. Some of the pressures to bring persons to normal weight levels come from our general social attitudes. Leanness, in models in advertisements, television presentations, movies, and other sources, is encouraged, in contrast to stoutness or fatness. Heavy persons may find it more difficult to obtain work and promotions.

In former times, obesity was somewhat admired, particularly in women. Adequate nourishment was an indication of some degree of affluence.

According to a report from the National Center for Health Statistics, summarized recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association, most men and women are now heavier than their counterparts of the early 1960's. Perhaps these changes represent some evidence of over-nutrition, but they also may represent a gradual change in our attitude toward being overweight.

The fact that you state that you feel better when your weight is above the accepted normal level prescribed by your physician may be significant in your case. The content of your diet (low in animal fats) and regular exercise may be more important than your exact poundage.

Stork Showers Held, Honor, Mrs. Burkeen

Mrs. Dennis B. (Gail) Burkeen has been honored with two stork showers held recently.

The first was held on Thursday, Aug. 10, at seven p.m. at the community room of the North Branch of the Peoples Bank with Mrs. Grant Black, Mrs. Kenneth Mohler, Mrs. Jackie Burkeen, Mrs. C. W. Outland, and Mrs. Bobby Joe Lee as hostesses.

Mrs. Burkeen was presented a corsage of daisies in the baby motif, and opened her many gifts, assisted by Mrs. Gary Tabers. Games were directed by Mrs. Mohler.

Refreshments of punch, cake, nuts, and mints were served at the table overlaid with a blue cloth and centered with a special stork centerpiece.

The second was held at the home of Mrs. Jerry Sheridan on Monday, Aug. 14, at seven p.m. Other hostesses were Mrs. Charles Tipton, Mrs. Elizabeth Jones, and Mrs. Ernie Sheridan.

For the occasion the honoree wore a beige floral printed dress. She opened her many gifts. Games were directed by the hostesses.

Refreshments of green tinted punch, decorated cakes, nuts, and mints were served at the dining room table overlaid with a lovely cloth and centered with a floral arrangement.

Norwood-Robertson Vows Solemnized At Church

Miss Jo Beth Norwood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Ed Norwood of Kirksey and Joe Pat Robertson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Robertson of Murray, were married Friday, August 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary of the Oak Grove-Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Glen Hill of the Cayce United Methodist Church, Cayce, and the Rev. A. J. Terry of the Oak Grove Church performed the double ring ceremony.

The sanctuary of the church was decorated with two spiral brass candelabra each containing fifteen burning white tapers entwined with ivy. On either side were two large Boston ferns in white baskets. A large, gold, lighted cross suspended from the far wall of the sanctuary was used as the main decoration for the ceremony. An assortment of green potted plants including weeping fig trees and a large Boston fern with lighted hurricane lamps as accents and a prayer bench completed the decorations. The family pews were marked with white satin bows and greenery.

Preceding the ceremony, organ selections were presented by Miss Ginger Powell, cousin of the bride. Miss Sally Slayden of Mayfield accompanied herself on the guitar and sang "Always and Forever" and "I Won't Last A Day Without You."

The procession began with "The Wedding March" by Mendelssohn. The bride, escorted by her father entered to "The Bridal March" by Lohengrin. After being given in marriage by her parents, the bride and groom exchanged vows in the beautiful candlelight setting. The traditional march by Mendelssohn was again used for the recessional.

Bride's Dress
The bride was radiant in her elegant formal length gown of white Quiana knit. The empire fitted bodice featured a Queen Anne neckline accented with Venice lace and tiny seed pearls.

Venice lace also adorned the full Bishop sleeves which ended in deep cuffs of lace. The circular skirt flowed softly into a full chapel length train.

The bride wore a mantilla designed and made by her mother. It was made of silk illusion, edged and applied in matching lace.

She also carried out the tradition of having "something old, something new, something borrowed, something blue." A topaz ring that her maternal grandmother wore as a child, a shiny new penny, a lace handkerchief borrowed from her paternal grandmother, and a blue lace garter made by the groom's aunt completed the list. The maid of honor placed the penny in the bride's shoe for good luck.

She carried a single white glamelia accented with green fern. Her only jewelry was the topaz ring and a diamond pendant given to her by the groom.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Penny Lockhart of Murray. She wore a formal length gown of sea-mist green Quiana knit. The dress was gathered into a back buttoned neckband with a waist inset band and above elbow length cape sleeves. She carried a yellow glamelia edged in white lace and greenery.

Her other attendants were Miss Vanessa Usrey, Benton, Miss Lorie Rogers, Elizabethtown, and Miss Melanie Norwood, sister of the bride, Lexington.

The attendants wore dresses and carried bouquets identical to the maid of honor.

Steve Robertson, brother of the groom, served as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were Andy Coles, Tim Coles, Marty Carraway, Terry Brown, and Tim Brown, all of Murray.

The mother of the bride chose to wear a formal length gown of powder blue polyester. It was a shirtwaisted style with a tucked bodice accented with pearl buttons and lace. She wore matching accessories and her corsage consisted of a white cymbidium orchid.

Mrs. Robertson, mother of the groom, was attired in a formal length gown of mint green polyester and matching chiffon cape and accessories. She also wore a white cymbidium orchid corsage.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ellwood Brown of Hardin, chose to wear a street length dress of brown and beige gauze with matching accessories. Mrs. Edger Norwood, of the Olive community, paternal grandmother of the bride, wore a street length dress of beige polyester with matching accessories, and Mrs. Robert Flood, paternal grandmother of the groom, was also attired in a street length dress of beige polyester with co-ordinating accessories.

Each grandmother was presented a corsage of yellow carnations.

Guests registered in the bride's book at a table covered with a candlelight lace cloth. A yellow carnation in a crystal bud vase highlighted the table. Miss Lisa Carraway served at the register and she was presented a yellow carnation corsage.

Mrs. Glen Hill directed the wedding and the reception. She was presented a small gift in appreciation.

Reception

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church by the bride's parents.

The beautifully appointed serving table was covered with a white linen cloth. Centering the table was a large crystal cake stand filled with an arrangement of yellow daisies.

The three-tiered white wedding cake was decorated with white roses and heavy roping. Fresh yellow daisies were arranged between each layer and on top of the cake. A crystal punch bowl completed the table. Yellow and green cream mints and assorted nuts were also served from crystal dishes.

Serving the guests were Miss Kim Kemp, Mrs. Pade

Pritchard and Mrs. Louie Henson, all from Murray, and Miss Kim Smith, Kirksey.

From wicker baskets with white satin bows, rice bags were distributed among the guests by Tracey, Terri and Chris Gillum of Kirksey.

After a wedding trip to Mammoth Cave National Park, the couple is temporarily residing in Murray until their new home is completed in New Concord.

Out of town guests included Ms. Martha Jo Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Powell and son, Benton, Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Scott and daughter, Mayfield, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Dortch and son, Paducah, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hill and family, Cayce, Mrs. Charles Rogers, Keith Rogers, Elizabethtown, Steve Whitaker, Lexington, John Bruce Usrey, Washington, D.C., Tonya and Troy Brown, Farmington, Ill.

Rehearsal Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Robertson, parents of the groom, were hosts for the rehearsal dinner held on Thursday evening August 3, at the Sirlin Stockade, Murray.

The table was set for twenty guests including the wedding party. The couple presented their attendants with gifts.

Red Cross — A Good Neighbor

A very successful summer swim program has recently been completed by the continually-active Calloway County Red Cross Chapter in which well over 400 individuals received some type of water safety training.

The local Red Cross Chapter, under the able leadership of executive secretary Jean Blankenship, has also been involved in many other activities this year that have assisted, in one way or another, more than 1,000 local citizens.

Our Red Cross chapter contributes much to the well-being of our community with many of its services "behind-the-scenes" and unknown to the general public.

This summer alone, the swimming program, under the direction of Joyce Betsworth and 16 other instructors and aides, gave swimming instructions to 406 individuals in beginner through advanced courses. The assistant director of this year's program has been Mary Moran and the instructors were Diana Rabatin, Lesa Brockett, Mike Johnson, Danny Carroll and Helen Ostrow.

The instructors, in addition to the regular swimming lessons, also assisted mentally and physically handicapped individuals in learning to swim. The programs were conducted at the city-county park pool complex.

But the swim program is only one of the many areas in which the local Red Cross chapter excels. Among the others are:

- A social service program that so far this year has handled 495 cases affecting 983 persons.

- An advanced emergency care program that has trained 29 individuals.

- A basic canoeing course that taught 14 persons the fundamentals of handling a canoe.

- A standard first aid course that has given first aid lessons to 151 individuals.

- A CPR course that has taught 81 persons the basics of cardio-pulmonary resuscitation.

The Red Cross chapter also coordinates a volunteer worker program at the Murray-Calloway County Hospital that has provided 32 persons and 3,600 hours of volunteer work at the hospital so far this year, saving the facility some $12,000 it would have paid if the workers had been hired.

In addition, the veterans assistance program operated through the Red Cross has provided more than $42,000 in assistance payments to qualified veterans in this year alone.

And all of this is in addition to what most of us think about when we hear the Red Cross mentioned — disaster and emergency services which are provided through the local chapter in time of need.

All of this together explains why the Calloway County Red Cross Chapter was named the Outstanding Chapter in Kentucky in 1977.

We are proud of the accomplishments of the local Red Cross chapter and salute the staff members and the chapter's board of directors who oversee its activities. The Calloway County Red Cross is truly a "Good Neighbor."

HEARTLINE

Heartline is a service for senior citizens. Its purpose is to answer questions and solve problems — fast. If you have a question or a problem not answered in these columns, write Heartline, 114 East Dayton Street, West Alexandria, Ohio 45381. You will receive a prompt reply, but you must include a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The most useful replies will be printed in this column.

HEARTLINE: My father worked in the coal mines his whole life. I have tried to talk him into filing for black lung benefits. Can you tell me if there is a time period to do this? — F.S.

A miner must file a claim for benefits within three years after a medical determination of total disability due to black lung disease or within three years after the date of enactment of the Black Lung Benefits Reform Act of 1977. There are no time limitations for dependent survivors to file claims.

HEARTLINE: I am a 63-year-old widow. My husband was a veteran of World War II. My only income is my Social Security Widow's benefit. I have heard of a benefit from the Veteran's Administration called Dependency Indemnity Compensation (DIC) that many widows receive. Can you tell me what the qualifications for these are? — C.E.

DIC payments are authorized for widows, widowers, unmarried children under 18 (as well as certain helpless children and those between 18 and 23 if attending a VA-approved school), and certain parents of service personnel or veterans who died on or after Jan. 1, 1957, from: (a) a disease or injury incurred or aggravated in line of duty while on active duty or active duty training; (b) an injury incurred or aggravated in line of duty while on inactive duty training; or (c) a disability otherwise compensable under laws administered by VA.

HEARTLINE: I have just recently been involved in an automobile accident. I do not think I will be able to go back to work for quite a while. Should I apply for Social Security disability? — N.B.

The first thing to do when applying for Social Security disability is to make sure that you meet all of the requirements. Here are the four basic requirements for Social Security disability:

1. You must be "fully insured" under Social Security.
2. You must have at least 20 quarters of covered earnings under Social Security in 40 consecutive calendar quarters ending the quarter in which your disability began. In other words, you must have worked five years out of the 10-year period immediately preceding your disability.
3. You must have supporting objective medical evidence showing that your disability will prevent you from doing any substantial, gainful work.
4. Your disability must be expected to last (or has lasted) for at least one full year or be expected to result in death.

If you do feel that you are eligible based on these requirements, go to the closest Social Security office to apply. Make sure that you take with you the medical evidence (doctor's statement) of your disability.

A statement by a physician that a person is disabled is not controlling for the purpose of meeting the disability requirement of the Social Security Act.

When you apply for Social Security disability, your local Social Security office will send your claim to an agency in your state which is under contract to determine if you are disabled under the law. This agency will consider all the facts in your file. They will request medical evidence from your physician, hospital, clinic or institution where you have been treated.

Your physician is asked to report the medical history of your condition (such as what is wrong with you, how severe your problem is, what test results have shown and any treatment you have received). Your doctor is not asked whether you are "disabled" under the Social Security law.

Heartline has developed a book that explains, simply, the provisions of the Social Security program. Heartline's Guide to Social Security can be obtained by sending $2.00 to: Heartline, P.O. Box 11934, Chicago, Ill. 60611. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

Funny World

Boys go to the doctor more often than girls, but as they grow up, more females than males visit physicians.

The finding by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare derives the reports from its annual survey of health services provided in doctors' offices.

The latest HEW report, released over the weekend, showed that 52.3 percent of visits to pediatricians are by males. An earlier report indicated that trend reverses at about age 15, when visits by females begin to outnumber those by males.

The patient in the mental hospital was holding his ear close to the wall, listening intently. The attendant finally approached.

"Sh!" whispered the patient, beckoning to him.

The attendant pressed his ear to the wall for a long time. "I can't hear a thing," he finally said.

"I know," replied the patient, "it's been like that all day!"

Doctor: "Well, well! you're certainly looking much better than I thought you would!"

Patient: "That's probably because I followed the directions on that bottle of medicine you gave me."

Doctor: "Undoubtedly. What were they?"

Patient: "Keep bottle tightly corked."

Former Mayor Comments On City Hospital Tax

Dear Editor:

I have examined with interest accounts published audit of City of Murray's finances as reported in our local paper dated May 31, 1978 — with particular reference to "Analysis of hospital funds City of Murray, Kentucky, December 31, 1977." This report reveals that "fund balance, December 31, 1977" amounted to the sum of "$122,471.76." Said audit failed to reveal funds on hand as of December 31, 1977, in City of Murray voted hospital bond fund.

I have made inquiry since reading said audit and have learned that as of December 31, 1977, there was a balance in said account of $122,471.16. As of said date, there was $88,000.00 in outstanding bonds and outstanding interest of $7,832.50 for a total outstanding obligation of said fund in the sum of $95,832.50. Hence although the audit does not so reveal, it appears that there was a surplus in City of Murray voted hospital fund as of December 31, 1977.

Good Food

Dear Editor:

The general comments from students concerning cafeteria food is usually of the negative viewpoint. Therefore, I would like to take this opportunity to compliment the Murray High Food Service Staff, Mrs. Glenda Jeffery, Supt. Robert G. Jeffery, and the Murray Board of Education for providing a salad bar and a wide variety of good food for the Murray High students. The food is attractively served and well prepared.

Thanks to all of you for being considerate of a teenager's appetite.

Sincerely yours,

Glamour May Be On The Return

NEW YORK (AP) — The leading role taken by the big-name growth stocks in the market's rally this summer has provoked some speculation that glamour might once again be coming into fashion on Wall Street.

If that happens, it would mark a dramatic change. Over the past five years, the once-elite group of glamour stocks has enjoyed about as much vogue as tail fins or the Nehru jacket.

For the most part, the companies themselves — household names like IBM, Xerox, Kodak, Johnson & Johnson, Coca-Cola, McDonald's and Avon Products — have continued to compile impressive earnings records.

Anthony Tabell, an analyst at the Princeton, N.J., firm of Delafield, Harvey, Tabell, reported that a statistical composite of a dozen of these companies has shown steady earnings growth at a compound annual rate of better than 12 percent since the mid-1960s.

Yet an index of their stock prices calculated by Tabell fell from 117 in 1972 to 44 around the bottom of the 1973-74 bear market, and had recovered only to 55 by the end of 1977.

The price-earnings ratio of the stocks in the index — a widely used measure of investors' enthusiasm for a given issue or group of issues — tumbled from 52 at the end of 1972 to 13 five years later.

Tabell noted that this slide was partly the result of general market weakness. The price-earnings ratio of Standard & Poor's 500-stock composite index fell during the same time span from 18 to eight.

But he also pointed out that the growth stocks suffered disproportionately because of a shift in the investing pattern of institutions such as pension funds, which once were the glamour's biggest fans.

Working with data collected by the Securities and Exchange Commission, Tabell observed that pension funds in 1972 poured 95 percent of the money they received into stocks.

By 1977, that percentage first quarter of 1978, pension funds sold more stock than they bought for the first time on record.

The flow of money into pension funds, in the form of contributions by both corporations and employees, reached a record of $21 billion in 1977.

Tabell noted that that was equivalent to 2.7 percent of the total market value of all stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and 11.59 percent of the value of all stocks traded during the year.

Consumers Will Probably Be Paying More For Orange Juice, Canned Fruits; Apples Lower

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumers probably will be paying more for their orange juice, canned peaches, grapes and pears next month, but apple lovers may pay less for their favorite fruit, the Agriculture Department says.

Most canned, frozen, dried and fresh fruit will cost more this fall because crops generally are smaller and some fruits have yet to recover from severe weather.

But apples, priced high all year, should be cheaper thanks to an 11 percent increase in the national crop, department economist Jules Powell said on Tuesday.

He said it is difficult to predict the exact rise in fruit prices this fall, but 12-month government figures show that inflation for fruit has been steeper than for all food and beverages.

The unadjusted Consumer Price Index registered a 16.2 percent rise in fruits and vegetables from July 1977 through July 1978, compared to 10.3 percent for all food and beverages.

"In the fall, fruit prices usually are low. They're higher in the spring, and then dip in June and July," Powell said. "This year there haven't been any dips."

"Fruits and vegetables have done a lot to increase total food prices this year," he added, noting that fruit comprises about a quarter of the average family's diet.

Prices for processed fruits — dried, canned and frozen — should increase because farmers received higher prices this year while processing and marketing costs have also risen, the department said.

Powell said frozen orange juice prices might rise slightly because a small crop this year followed the crop-damaging freeze of January 1977.

Peaches for canning this year were more scarce than in any recent year and the crop is still trying to recover from the California drought of the summer of 1977, Powell said.

The pear crop remains low, signaling higher prices, while the cost of grapes shows no signs of declining despite a large crop, Powell said.

Troubleshooter Is Called In For Postal Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — James J. Healy, an experienced labor troubleshooter, is being called in to try to resolve the Postal Service contract dispute that took the nation to the brink of a threatened mail strike this week.

Healy, a Harvard University professor with extensive experience in labor-management mediation, was selected for the tough assignment on Tuesday. The choice was made by Wayne L. Horvitz, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, who now bows out of the mediation effort.

Healy's task is to seek agreement on a new contract for more than 500,000 postal workers that has eluded Postal Service and union negotiators since April 20. A tentative settlement was reached July 21 with Horvitz's help. The unions retained a prohibition on layoffs while management held the pay agreement to an average of 6.5 percent per year over three years.

However, the agreement came unglued last week as members of all three unions refused to ratify it. The two largest unions ordered their presidents to go back to the bargaining table and try to get more money.

After refusing to renegotiate, the Postal Service gave in and agreed to 15 days of new bargaining. However, the Postal Service also won union agreement to binding arbitration on issues still unresolved after the 15 days.

Purcell Faces Trey Waltke In First-Round U.S. Open Action

FLUSHING MEADOWS, N.Y. — Around 3 p.m. today, a 19-year-old kid from Murray will walk onto a side court of the new National Tennis Center and play his first match in what is most certainly the biggest tournament of his life.

That kid — Mel Purcell — will face Trey Waltke, a 24-year-old professional tennis circuit veteran from St. Louis, in a first-round match at the U.S. Open.

His success against Waltke, and other players in later-round matches should he defeat him, may well determine what's in the immediate future for Purcell.

"Yeah, if I do pretty well in the Open, it might make me seriously think of turning pro," Purcell said prior to playing today.

"I'm really not decided yet. There's a couple of universities (The University of Tennessee is one of them) that I may attend if I don't turn pro."

Considering the success Purcell has enjoyed the past few weeks, it's not difficult to understand his indecision.

Unseeded in the U.S. National 21-and-Under Championships in Mahwah, N.J., two weeks ago, Purcell swept through the 128-player field to the title, defeating Buddy Bowman of Little Rock, Ark., in a straight set final.

"I was just the lucky one that survived," Purcell recalls. "All the seeded players were going down, and they were complaining of the hot weather (in the mid 90s). When you play that many matches in just a week — seven — so much of winning is luck."

Purcell will have to win the same number of times for the Open title, but he will have two weeks to do it. He'll also have to get past about 124 professionals. "Including myself, I think there are four amateurs in the tournament," Purcell said.

Most of the top players in the world are in the tourney, which is being played for the first time in Flushing Meadows. It was previously held at the West Side Tennis Club.

Bjorn Borg, the top seed, is here, as is Jimmy Connors. Those two are rated as favorites for the finals spots.

There's also last year's Open champion, Guillermo Vilas.

Purcell has had some experience with the Argentine; three sets, to be exact. He pushed Vilas to the limit in the Gene Scott Invitational in Somers, N.Y., last week before losing, 6-1, 3-6, 6-1.

Tony Wilson
Sports Editor

The Scott tourney berth, as well as the U.S. Open spot, were his rewards for winning the National 21's.

"I really had no idea what to expect before I played him (Vilas)," Purcell said. "I always felt like I could play with guys like him, but I wasn't sure. Now I feel like I'm not that far below his level."

Purcell lost to Cliff Richey, 7-6, 7-5, in his next match in the invitational, but bounced back to defeat Ion Tiriac, a Romanian noted for his fierce scowl and temperment, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

"He didn't give me too much trouble," Purcell said. "A couple of times he looked mad when some line calls went against him, but that was about it."

The new stadium for the Open features a new playing surface, a much faster one than last year's Har Tru, clay-like court.

Borg, who defeated Bob Hewitt 6-0, 6-2, to begin play in the Open Tuesday night, said he had trouble adjusting to it despite the apparent ease of his victory.

But that should be no trouble for Purcell, an aggressive serve and volleyer who is at home on such a surface. "They had the same type of court at Mahwah, so I shouldn't have any problems with that," he said.

Should Purcell defeat Waltke, he will face the winner of the Kim Warwick-Colin Dowdwell match. And what if he wins that one?

"I haven't looked that far ahead," says Purcell.

Orioles A Success, At Least With A's, As Baltimore Sweeps 11-Game Series

By the Associated Press

You could say that the Baltimore Orioles have the Oakland A's number. They've had it all year.

The Orioles have won all 11 games they've played with Oakland this season, but they won't have the A's to kick around any more in 1978. The season series between the clubs is over.

Baltimore, which has won eight straight games, are just the second team to sweep a season series in the American League. The Orioles did it in 1970 when they beat Kansas City 12 times. It has been done three times in the National League, but not since 1899.

The Orioles got two RBI from Lee May and Ken Singleton and a homer from Rich Dauer. Dauer was involved in a collision with Oakland starting pitcher Mike Norris in the third inning when Norris fielded a bunt and threw it over third baseman Wayne Gross' head. When Norris attempted to recover the ball, he and Dauer, who was rounding third, smashed together.

Elsewhere in the AL, the New York Yankees edged California 4-3 in 11 innings, Boston bombed Seattle 10-5, Milwaukee blanked Cleveland 6-0, Detroit beat Minnesota 4-2, Chicago topped Kansas City 9-3 and Toronto was a 4-1 winner over Texas.

Yankees 4, Angels 3

Paul Blair was twice a hero for the Yankees. He advanced two bases on a sacrifice bunt in the eighth, then scored on Willie Randolph's triple. In the 11th, with the bases loaded, Blair smashed a 400-foot single to deep center to score Graig Nettles with the winning run.

Red Sox 10, Mariners 5

George Scott smashed his third career grand slam and Dick Drago won in his first starting assignment in more than three years.

Drago, who had made 135 straight relief appearances, made his last start July 11, 1975. His last victory as a starter was on Sept. 26, 1974.

Brewers 6, Indians 0

Milwaukee won its 13th game in the last 17 behind Andy Replogle's seven-hitter and Don Money's three-run homer.

Tigers 4, Twins 2

Milt Wilcox hurled his 15th complete game this season and his fourth in a row, a seven-hitter that was his sixth straight victory.

Wilcox, 12-8, got help from Rusty Staub's two-run double as Detroit scored all its runs in the fourth inning.

White Sox 9, Royals 3

Mike Proly pitched three-hit ball for seven innings before a Darrell Porter line drive hit his hand and fractured his right thumb.

SAN FRANCISCO —

Wide receiver Gene Washington, whose nine years of service was the longest of any San Francisco 49er when he was placed on injured waivers this week, says the Detroit Lions have claimed him and he will report to that National Football League team.

"I think they're interested in me for the future," Washington said Tuesday.

Orantes Captures Pro Championships

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) —

Manuel Orantes of Spain is the U.S. Pro Tennis champion for the second year in a row, but he doesn't think too highly of his chances heading into the U.S. Open.

"I'm not too confident because I don't have any time to get ready for the Open," Orantes said Tuesday night after retaining the U.S. Pro title with a 6-4, 6-3 victory over veteran Harold Solomon on Longwood's clay courts.

Orantes, the 1975 U.S. Open champion, is seeded ninth this year. However, he figures to be hurt by the shift from clay, his favorite surface, to cement at Flushing Meadows, N.Y.

The 29-year-old Spaniard broke a long winless streak in whipping Solomon in the rain-delayed final of the $200,000 U.S. Pro event at Longwood. He hit a slump after winning here last year, showing only a victory in Tokyo in the fall until his return.

Orantes needed just 1 hour and 34 minutes to dash Solomon's hopes and walked off with top prize money of $27,200 in the 51st annual tournament.

The Spaniard saved two break points in holding service in the opening game of the match, then broke Solomon in the second game. Orantes lost his service for the only time in the ninth game, but broke right back for the first set.

Balazs Taroczy of Hungary and Victor Peco of Paraguay won the doubles championship with a 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 victory over Heinz Gunthardt of Switzerland and Van Winitsky of Lauderdale, Fla.

The winning team split $12,000, with the runnerup team getting $6,000.

the New York Mets 2-0.

Forsch walked only one and struck out seven in running his record to 8-4. He also knocked in two runs.

Dennis Walling drove in three runs for Houston and Art Howe had three singles before suffering a broken finger when he was struck by a thrown ball in the sixth inning. Howe will be sidelined for about three weeks.

Dodgers 4, Expos 1

A three-run homer by Joe Ferguson backed Tommy John's six-hit pitching as Los Angeles posted the 10th victory in its last 14 games and retained a one-game lead in the NL West.

John became the fourth NL pitcher to win 16 games as he walked four and struck out six in throwing his seventh complete game of the season.

Giants 2, Mets 0

Bob Knepper's four-hit shutout and Jim Dwyer's bat and arm gave San Francisco its win over New York. It was Knepper's fourth shutout of the season.

Dwyer hit his fourth home run of the year in the first inning, then threw out Elliott Maddox at home plate in the sixth inning.

Phillies 9, Padres 5

Jerry Martin homered and tripled, driving in four runs, and Garry Maddox drove in three more to power Philadelphia past San Diego.

Braves 4, Cubs 3

Gary Matthews' three-run homer powered Atlanta to its victory.

OVC To Expand?

By the Associated Press
MURFREESBORO, Tenn. — The Ohio Valley Conference's expansion committee will meet today to discuss the addition of two members to the eight-team conference.

OVC Commissioner Bob Vanatta refused to disclose the names of any prospective members.

"Right now, we are merely discussing what steps we want to take," Vanatta said. "We are interested in adding a 9th and 10th member, but we won't take just anybody. We want to take our time and make sure we make the right choices."

Earlier this year, East Tennessee State University left the OVC to become a member of the Southern Conference. The University of Akron was selected to replace ETSU.

Yankees Can't Gain, Owner Unworried

By the Associated Press
NEW YORK — The New York Yankees win and win, and win, yet, as if on a treadmill, they can't get within sight of the onrushing Boston Red Sox.

One would expect that the impatient, victory-driven George Steinbrenner III would be found in his cushiony executive suite at the Stadium tearing out his fingernails, throwing ashtrays out the window and kicking holes in the furniture.

Not so.

"On the contrary, I haven't taken the season hard at all," the owner of baseball's most prestigious franchise said. "Al is taking it much harder than I. He gets anguished over every game."

The reference was to Al Rosen, the man who replaced Gabe Paul as the Yankees' chief executive officer.

"It might have been different if I had expected more," Steinbrenner continued. "I said before the season that I didn't think we had a good spring training and I was afraid the Red Sox would jump off to a running start that would be tough to overtake."

"We're not conceding anything yet but those 7½ games look bigger every day. I really haven't been as involved with the team this year. I've been tied up with some other outside interests and the weight has fallen almost entirely on Al."

While his 8-year-old son, Harold, fiddled with trophies on the desk, the electrically-charged Yankee boss seemed contented to turn his attention to next year and baseball's overall problems generally.

He refused to blame the Yankees' falldown on the locker room friction which resulted in the mid-season resignation — and later rehiring — of Manager Billy Martin.

"That had nothing to do with it, we had a lot of that in 1977 when we won," he said — in triplicate, he might have added. "Injuries is what killed us. A team is as good as it is up the middle — catcher, pitcher, second base and centerfield."

"Our pitching staff was decimated. First, we lost Andy Messersmith. Catfish Hunter was on the disabled list two times. We've had only eight starts out of Don Gullett. If Gullett had stayed healthy, we'd be on top right now."

"Everybody on the team except (Chris) Chambliss and (Graig) Nettles was hurt at one time or other. Mickey Rivers was out two or three weeks. We lost Bucky Dent for about two months. Willie Randolph was lost for three weeks. How can you win with injuries like that? I'm proud we've hung in there as well as we have."

"Look at this," he said, rummaging through some papers. "If Kansas City was playing in our division, they would be in sixth place, behind the Red Sox, Yankees, Brewers, Tigers and Orioles. Yet they're leading their division. Isn't that ridiculous?"

Umps May Strike Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Major league baseball umpires could walk off the field again today if a ruling at an injunction hearing in federal court here allows them to strike.

A court injunction was issued last Friday, forcing the umpires back to work after a one-day walkout. Amateur umpires were used in their place. It was the second umpires' strike in major league baseball history.

Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, and Chub Feeney, president of the National League, were expected to attend the federal court hearing.

Richie Phillips, a Philadelphia-based lawyer representing the Major League Umpires Association, also was expected to attend. He would not comment Tuesday on the scheduled hearing.

The umpires are seeking improvements in a contract that runs through 1981. They want three one-week vacations during the regular season, job security after three years, cost-of-living increases and increased disability benefits.

Both leagues have refused to negotiate these details, saying they are covered by the contract. But on Friday, Phillips contended the contract was not valid and said the umpires would fight the injunction through the courts.

Bench Clarifies Statement About Skipper Anderson

By the Associated Press
CINCINNATI

Disturbed that some felt his second-guessing was undermining Manager Sparky Anderson, Johnny Bench wanted to make something clear.

"I was not in anyway knocking him as a manager," said Cincinnati's All-Star catcher, irritated at the uproar over remarks he made.

"I simply said we needed our butts kicked," Bench said Tuesday night, 24 hours after the controversy surfaced.

Bench played down the matter, saying it was difference of opinion, not a dispute. "We're not having any problems," he said, while playing backgammon in the clubhouse with pitcher Tom Hume.

But his remarks that Anderson is "too nice, perhaps in awe of us" struck a nerve. He suggested that Anderson is "intimidated" by the team's highpaid stars and has "withdrawn from it all."

"At first I was mad, I'll admit that," Anderson told The Associated Press in a pre-game interview.

"But in all fairness to John, I don't think he meant it the way it came out. I don't think he is intentionally questioning my way. Maybe John is saying he needs someone to scream at him."

The controversy came as the Reds struggle to end their worst slump under Anderson since 1971. Tuesday night's 5-0 loss to Pittsburgh was Cincinnati's sixth in a row and 17th in 23 games.

Not all the Reds agreed with Bench's comments.

"I disagree with him and I told him so," said second baseman Joe Morgan. "Sparky has screamed and hollered at us. He's done everything he could."

Sluggish George Foster, asked for his reaction to the article, said, "Just say I got a couple chuckles out of it. Did he have an opinion? 'Yes, come and see me after 32 games.'"

Bench said in the Dayton Daily News article that Anderson has not been harsh enough. "Mistakes need to be pointed out out publicly and Sparky isn't the only one, shall we say, intimidated."

He also claimed that the Cincinnati press "is so protective. The writing is too partisan." In the past, Bench has lashed out at what he terms negative writing.

Anderson had answered Bench's criticism angrily. "If anybody is looking to me for the answer (for the slump), they're looking at the wrong guy. The only people who can turn it around are sitting out in that room."

Bench said he approached Anderson, in the manager's office, after the article circulated through the Reds' clubhouse.

"He believes so strongly in us and we're not producing. He definitely has a tendency to get down," said Bench.

Anderson said he respects Bench for stating his opinion and standing by it. "I may not agree with it, but I respect him for it. Another thing, it shows me he cares. The only thing I did not like was the word 'awed.'"

Anderson admits he is disappointed with the Reds' performance this season. "It's ugly baseball. We've played worse this year than the last year when we finished 10 games behind. We've lost that close-knit togetherness we had," he said, referring to the 1975 and 1976 World Championship clubs.

Throughout his nine seasons in Cincinnati, Anderson has rejected the temptation of finding scapegoats. "From a manager's standpoint, I can't change me. I believe if you are right with people, they will do right by you."

He fears that long-term contracts have had a negative effect.

"Any time you command big money, you're suppose to produce."

Prior to the game, Bob Howsam, vice-chairman of the club and former president, held a clubhouse meeting with the team. Howsam said he had "been hearing things and wanted to find out from my friends."

"I met alone with the players. In essence, I personally built this club and I haven't been pleased with things being said. I am very proud of my ballclub. I just want them to think about it, what I said. We found out about a lot of things and why we have had some negatives."

The Reds led the NL West by a half-game Aug. 6, but have scored three runs or less in 18 of their last 27 outings. They trail the division-leading Los Angeles Dodgers by six games.

Wet Weather Not A Factor

One advantage of artificial turf is that it doesn't become a quagmire after a rain. That enabled the Racers to hold practice Tuesday at Roy Stewart Stadium despite the wet weather.

Coach Mike Gottfried and his staff are in the final stages of preparing the squad for the season and home opener with Southeast Missouri at Stewart Stadium Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

The Racer Club invites everyone to Stewart Stadium Thursday at 7 p.m. for a soft drink and a chance to meet the Racers.

Following a barbecue at the on-campus cafeteria being held in their honor, the Racer football players will be at the stadium to meet and talk with area fans.

Younger Player In Envious Position In Making Decision

PLAINFIELD, N.J. (AP)

Accept a college scholarship to an American school or turn professional? That is the dilemma facing Wayne Player of Johannesburg, South Africa, 16-year-old son of Gary Player and the youngest competitor in the 78th U.S. Amateur Golf Championship.

The teen-ager does not have to come up with an answer until he completes at least a two-year compulsory hitch with the South African army. And that tour of duty does not start until January, 1980 when Player turns 18.

In the meantime, the amazing look-alike of his famous father hopes to play the kind of golf that he has displayed on a six-month tour of Europe and the U.S.

Tuesday, after holding a fivestroke lead with six holes remaining, Player finally beat back Flint Lincoln of Longmeadow, Mass., 3 and 2. The teenager had six birdies and was 2-under par when the match ended on the 16th hole.

"This is my fourth tournament in the U.S.," said Player. "My best showing was a tie for 20th in the Porter Cup (Niagara Falls, N.Y.)."

"I also played in Great Britain and France. It has been a good experience. That's the main thing. Colleges have approached me about scholarships but I have to wait until completing my army service."

"High school is all over for me, so I'll go on the amateur tour in South Africa when I go home. I'm returning right after this tournament."

Does Player expect to play a lot of golf while in the service?

"I expect to be sent to the border and guard against the terrorists," replied Player. "There are a lot of Cubans around there."

"By the time I get out of the army, I may decide to turn pro right away. If not, then I'll consider college. Nothing is definite right now."

"There is even a chance that I'll have to serve three years in the army. The minimum time is under discussion right now."

Does being the son of Gary Player present pressure on the golf course?

"There are disadvantages and advantages," said the 5-foot-8, 160-pounder who used his father's caddy Al (Rabbit) Dyer Tuesday. "People expect too much from me."

"The other day I shanked a shot and some guy walked up and said 'what would your father say about that?' I just walked away from that person. People like that don't understand golf."

"An advantage is the way most people treat you."

Danny Lee Johnson is a big reason why Murray State should have a strong corp of running backs. Johnson, a 6-1 sophomore, will start at fullback for the Racers Saturday.

Flash Flood Watch In Effect

By The Associated Press
Flash flood watches were in effect for Kentucky and extreme southern Indiana early today as showers and occasional thunderstorms continued to move through the area.

Rainshowers and thunderstorms also reached from the central Gulf Coast to the central Atlantic Coast.

Showers and thunderstorms were scattered from southwestern Nebraska and eastern Colorado across southern New Mexico to southeast Texas.

A tornado touched down into a block of fast food restaurants and gas stations along Memphis' Elvis Presley Boulevard, cutting power, peeling off roofs, flipping cars and spraying dozens of people with glass shards.

Police said 24 persons were taken to a hospital and at least one person was hospitalized in satisfactory condition. No one was killed.

Locally heavy rain caused flooding Tuesday night in northeastern Colorado, including portions of Denver. The thunderstorms also produced several feet of hail in portions of Colorado.

Temperatures around the nation early today ranged from 36 degrees in Warroad, Minn., to 88 in Las Vegas, Nev.

The forecast called for scattered showers and thunderstorms from the lower and mid-Mississippi Valley across the Ohio Valley.

Wet weather also will continue over the southern and central Appalachians and the southern and central mid-Atlantic coastal states.

Widely scattered thunderstorms will cover the southern and central Rockies and most of Texas. Sunny or partly cloudy skies will prevail elsewhere.

Mild temperatures will continue from the northern Plateau region across the Rockies, the Plains, the Mississippi and Ohio valleys and the Great Lakes region and much of the northern Appalachians. Seasonably warm temperatures will continue elsewhere.

Accused In McBrayer Tapping Case

FBI Says Man Also Wanted To Bug Gov. Carroll

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Stuart Swartz, accused of trying to hire a General Telephone employee to tap former Commerce Commissioner W. Terry McBrayer's telephones, also wanted to bug Gov. Julian Carroll, according to the FBI.

McBrayer is considered a top Democratic candidate, and Carroll's personal choice, for governor.

Swartz, 39, of Lexington, was arrested Friday on a complaint filed by the FBI. He was arraigned before U.S. Magistrate David Irvin and released after his father-in-law, Wallace Robinson, posted $1,200 of a $10,000 bond.

Irvin scheduled a Sept. 7 preliminary hearing for Swartz in U.S. District Court here.

The complaint charges that Swartz offered Durrett Wells $5,000 for bugging McBrayer's telephone on behalf of an unnamed third party. The offer allegedly was made in one of several meetings between Swartz and Wells since February.

According to the complaint, Wells contacted the FBI Feb. 1. He agreed to wear a concealed tape recorder to record a conversation with Swartz three days later at a clothing store owned by Robinson.

Swartz was arrested while working at the store Friday night.

In the alleged conversation, as reported by the FBI, Swartz said, "You know, Terry McBrayer. They want to bug his office. They want to bug his home and his home is here in Lexington."

The complaint also states Swartz told Wells that if he could tap a telephone line between the governor's office and someone in the "Department of Parks building," the person who wanted it done would pay $5,000.

The parks department is located in the Capitol Plaza Tower, where McBrayer has his office.

Swartz has refused to comment on the case. His lawyer, James I. Murray of Lexington, also refused to comment except to say, "There will be adequate opportunity for Mr. Swartz to make his response to the charges within the (legal) system."

Carroll, contacted in Boston where he is attending a meeting of the National Governor's Association, said he has bought clothes for years from Swartz and that he rejected "favors" from the man, considering them "inappropriate."

Carroll said he was "shocked" to learn of the arrest of Swartz, a man he had known since he came to Frankfort in the 1960s as a legislator.

The governor said the alleged favors Swartz sought from him concerned Swartz's desire to buy Robinson's Ltd., a Lexington clothing store owned by Robinson.

Carroll said the phone line between his office and McBrayer's that was the alleged object of a bugging effort is one of a series of unlisted hot lines that connect the governor with key members of his staff and other state officials.

Carroll said that while he has bought suits and other clothing from Robinson Ltd. over the years but did not consider Swartz a close friend.

'Active' Col. Sanders Turns 88 In September

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — There will be no quiet family gathering when Col. Harland Sanders turns 88 next month.

In keeping with his lifestyle, Sanders will have about 700 friends and franchisees of the Kentucky Fried Chicken empire that he founded 22 years ago over for a Sept. 9 birthday party.

The opening of the Col. Harland Sanders Museum at KFC's white-columned headquarters here will be a highlight of the celebration.

Sanders has not let his age, arthritis, slipping eyesight and hearing, occasional slips in memory and impending cataract surgery slow him down.

"If I had nothing to do when I get up, I'd go crazy," Sanders says.

Still wearing his famous mustache, goatee and white suit, Sanders travels more than 250,000 miles a year and makes numerous commercials for KFC, which he sold in 1964 for $2 million in cash.

Heublein, Inc. of Farmington, Conn., which currently owns KFC, pays Sanders $200,000 a year for advertising and promotional considerations.

Earlier this year he made a world tour, and recently traveled to Mexico City and Canada. He will go to Chicago before his birthday and three days after the celebration will be in Denver to receive, along with former President Gerald Ford and comedian Red Skelton, a gold medal from an international Masonic group.

Sanders gets up at 5 a.m. most mornings on his 32-acre farm in nearby Shelby County and tends a garden which includes tomatoes, sweet corn, Irish potatoes, beets, beans, okra and squash.

He has two secretaries who help answer his mail, although he answers much of it himself, and he spends countless hours signing autographs.

Sanders says he has dozens of the famous white suits and goes through six to eight in a year. He even wears them when he relaxes, although he does concede to a pair of khaki pants while working in his garden.

Sanders is particularly proud of the new museum, which will include one of the original pressure cookers he used to develop the unique, and still secret, recipe for making fried chicken more than 40 years ago while operating a service station in Corbin, Ky.

The museum will also contain a gold plated pressure cooker presented Sanders by his Florida franchise holders, pictures of Sanders with numerous celebrities and the many awards he has been given.

One display contains a painting of an elementary school Sanders (a sixth-grade dropout) attended in southern Indiana surrounded by six honorary doctorate degrees he has been awarded.

Jobless Rate Up

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — During July, Kentucky's unemployment rate rose to 5.3 percent, the first time it has been above 5 percent since March.

Robert MacDonald, chief labor market analyst for the Department for Human Resources, said the increase in unemployment during July was caused primarily by seasonal layoffs in the apparel industry and school systems and new entrants into the labor force who could not find jobs.

..The News In Brief..

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Billions of federal dollars have had little impact on education, mainly because local officials didn't get involved and teachers weren't taught how to teach better, a Rand Corp. study says.

The net return to the federal investment, the researchers said, "was the adoption of many innovations, the successful implementation of few and the long-run continuation of still fewer."

The four-year study commissioned by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare examined 293 federally financed projects, including some aimed at eliminating illiteracy and others at improving vocational and bilingual education.

wrapped up his Western vacation today and prepared to return to Washington for some of the biggest political battles of his presidency.

No. 1 on the list is a fight against formidable Senate opposition to his natural gas pricing bill — a major portion of Carter's energy plan, which has been stalled in Congress for 16 months.

To save the faltering natural gas compromise, Carter plans intensive lobbying with political leaders, big industrial users of natural gas and other groups.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agents are tracking "big, big money" to Swiss banks, where they believe General Services Administration employees channeled it after demanding payoffs from contractors, a source close to the investigation says.

Sources said the alleged scheme had GSA employees approving contracts for more work than was actually to be done with the contractors then providing kickbacks to the employees.

GSA Scandal May Involve 'Big Money'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal agents are tracking "big, big money" to Swiss banks, where they believe General Services Administration employees channeled it after demanding payoffs from contractors, a source close to the investigation says.

"They're over in Switzerland working on it through FBI liaison people," said the source, who asked not to be identified.

The Swiss connection is part of a larger investigation by Justice Department prosecutors and other federal investigators into alleged corruption involving millions of dollars in the GSA, which oversees construction and maintenance of federal buildings.

The source said he did not know whether U.S. agents had obtained much information so far from Swiss banks, long considered havens for illicit money from abroad, but he added that the banks "have opened up somewhat in recent years in disclosing information if you meet certain criteria."

Spokesmen for the Justice Department would not comment on the investigation Tuesday night. Vincent Alto, the former department prosecutor hired by GSA Administrator Jay Solomon with a publicized mission of cleaning up the GSA, said he was not involved in any tracking of bank accounts.

No dollar figure has been put on the alleged payoff schemes, but Alto said at MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Air force planes bombed Nicaragua's third largest city and civilians battled President Anastasio Somoza's soldiers in other towns as a general strike to drive the Somoza dynasty from power gained important new support.

Two planes bombed Matagalpa, 100 miles north of Managua, for two hours Tuesday, killing at least four persons and wounding many others, a Red Cross official there said.

TOKYO (AP) — Word of the huge U.S. trade deficit in July drove the dollar down nearly six yen at the start of trading on the Tokyo foreign exchange today. It recovered less than a yen to close at 189.725, 2.4 percent lower than Tuesday's closing rate.

Profits On Marijuana 'Harvest'
Considerable; More Than Tobacco

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — State Police are trying to reduce the harvest of a Kentucky crop that's much more profitable than tobacco.

The battle to confiscate and destroy marijuana is netting good, though not spectacular results, according to Lt. Arthur Conkwright, who heads the narcotics unit.

The raids seem concentrated mainly in central and western Kentucky and they are prompted mainly by tips and suspicious sightings from a State Police plane on occasional patrol.

"Usually we hear about marijuana from a farm owner who has leased his land," Conkwright said in an interview Tuesday. "He visits the farm, discovers marijuana and notifies us."

In such an event the grower is confronted and usually pleads guilty, averting a jury trial, Conkwright said. One apparent reason for the numerous guilty pleas is the light sentence.

The violation is merely a Class A misdemeanor, which could mean no more than one year in the county jail and a $500 fine.

Jail terms are rare, Conkwright said, and fines and confiscation are the normal outcome.

A bill was introduced in the 1978 Legislature to make production of marijuana a felony, but did not get out of committee.

"Some growers take this as serious business, even if the penalty is light," the State Police officer said.

He cited one case in which a marijuana patch was being guarded by a man with a machine gun—stolen weeks before from the sheriff's office.

"As our people approached, shots were fired, apparently as a warning for the other lookouts," Conkwright said. "They're always afraid of poachers."

In another field, State Police found an elaborate system of trip wires, with tin cans hanging from them, and also discovered an armed man living in a tent on the acreage.

"My concern that we're sending men into fields that are sometimes guarded by armed men," Conkwright said. "When all you can convict them of is a misdemeanor, it hardly seems worth it."

Camouflage for marijuana often is clever, Conkwright cited cases where corn is planted on the outside in a square, shielding the illegal crop. Sometimes the corn and marijuana are mixed in a field.

For pot growers who succeed, the profits can be considerable.

An acre of tobacco may gross about $3,000 for a farmer while the same amount in marijuana—although such large tracts are uncommon—could yield comparatively astronomical sums, based on the estimate of about $150 as the retail price of marijuana extracted from just one plant.

"As long as the penalty for cultivating large fields of marijuana is what it is and the potential profits are what they are, plenty of people are willing to take chances," Conkwright said. "So we can't really make much headway."

Conkwright said the state police want to avoid an image of troopers snooping into every hill and hollow in quest of the illegal weed.

"There are some places—in fence rows and barns—where the stuff grows wild," he said. "We don't make arrests in those cases."

Last week, marijuana which was growing wild on a large farm in Scott County was sprayed and destroyed with the cooperation of the owner, Conkwright said.

On the other hand, the biggest raid this year was on 10 acres in Nelson County, where the weed was grown deliberately.

"When we find marijuana planted in rows and we find the bags of fertilizer in the field, we draw the obvious conclusion," Conkwright said.

But Conkwright expressed quiet admiration for the technical skill. "Some of it is a beautiful crop," he said.

American Dollar Is Down Again In Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Word of the huge U.S. trade deficit in July drove the dollar down nearly six yen at the start of trading on the Tokyo foreign exchange today. It recovered less than a yen to close at 189.725, 2.4 percent lower than Tuesday's closing rate.

The drop, the biggest since the 1973 revaluation of the yen, came after similar action on the European and New York markets following the announcement that the American trade deficit in July was $2.99 billion, nearly double the June amount.

The dollar fell 1.4 percent against the West German mark in Europe Tuesday, 2.4 percent against the Swiss franc and 1 percent against the French franc, continued its steep fall in later New York trading.

About $1.17 billion of the U.S. deficit came in trade with Japan, compared to $1-billion deficits in both May and June. The total U.S. deficit with Japan so far this year is $7.49 billion, compared to $8.1 billion for all of 1977.

Trading in Tokyo ended Tuesday before the Washington announcement, and the dollar closed on the Japanese foreign exchange market at 194.30 yen, 10 yen above its record low. Trading opened today at 188.50, and dealers said importers began buying, which pushed the U.S. currency at one point back above 190. Then there was another slippage, and this continued to 189.35 in trading with other Asian markets after the Tokyo market closed.

"The trade deficit wiped out all the gains from American efforts to defend the dollar earlier," one trader in Tokyo said. "It will probably continue to slip back down tomorrow."

The dollar had fallen steadily this year from 238 yen on Jan. 4 to a low of 184.3 yen on Aug. 2, a drop of more than 22 percent, largely because of the continuing Japanese trade surpluses, U.S. deficits and American inflation.

in the late 1980s also was blamed for the recent upsurge in consumers' power bills.

The agency's borrowings for power plant construction are expected to increase $1.8 billion next year, raising TVA's total debt to almost $9 billion. More than one-fifth of each customer's power bill will go toward paying the $650 million in interest on that debt, 1989.

Freeman said TVA will remain in financial straits until some of the new power plants, which take 10 to 12 years to build, begin generating electricity in 1980.

Upset Over Schools

Protesting Pike Parents Withdraw Pickets

PIKEVILLE, Ky. (AP) — elementary schools and Millard High School.

The parents voted 49-45 Monday night to withdraw their pickets, which had closed the four schools in protest over conditions at the Lookout School and a shortage of bus drivers, pending further action by

Students were back in the classroom Tuesday at the Helier, Millard and Lookout Education.

Charles Spradlin, a leader of protesting parents, said he met with Pike County School Superintendent James T. Dotson Monday afternoon and was confident the county would proceed with plans to construct a new building at Lookout.

Spradlin encouraged the removal of the pickets until the next meeting of the school board Sept. 12.

Several parents voiced support for continuing the walkout and extending it to more schools. However, there were no apparent problems Tuesday when the four schools reopened, school officials said.

"We have not had any trouble at all," a secretary at the Millard Elementary School said. "The buses are back on the roads."

Alan Eppling, head of the Elkhorn City Action Group, said his organization, which has a separate dispute with the county board, will also await the Sept. 12 board meeting before deciding what further action to take.

The Elkhorn City group has hired an attorney and is exploring legal steps to get a new high school constructed, but has not yet closed any schools.

Eppling said both parents groups are upset about the board's decision to go ahead with construction of a new gymnasium for Virgie High School before constructing new schools at Elkhorn City and Lookout. He said his association is also upset about plans to reduce the original facility at Elkhorn City, including elimination of a new gym.

FBI Questioning Persons
Over Threat On President

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP) — A chambermaid who claims an unidentified man knocked her out in a hotel room containing a mirror on which were scrawled the words, "the president will die Thursday," was being held in protective custody today, authorities said.

Police Chief Robert Pollock said Tuesday that the woman, Kathy Wagoner, was being held, "I hate to use the word 'mental,' but for her mental well-being." He said she was "not very cooperative" during questioning Tuesday.

Ms. Wagoner, 23, who was being held in protective custody at Bonneville County Jail, told police she was assaulted after finding the mirror message in Room 145 of the Ramada Inn in Idaho Falls.

Ms. Wagoner said a man came toward her when she turned from the mirror and said, "You shouldn't have walked in here," then hit her on the head with a handgun, knocking her unconscious.

Mattresses in the room had been burned, and a picture of President Carter next to the mirror had an "X" drawn over it, hotel employees said. The employees said the Secret Service had taken the mirror.

Carter has been vacationing at Grand Teton National Park and planned to fly by helicopter 70 miles to Idaho Falls today. Air Force One was waiting at the Idaho Falls airport to carry Carter to Washington.

Officials have made no arrests and say they have not ruled out the possibility the incident was a hoax.

KIFI, an Idaho Falls television station, quoted Ms. Wagoner as saying she thought authorities were insinuating she was not telling the truth. She said the incident was not a hoax.

The television station also quoted unnamed sources as saying Ms. Wagoner had been asked to take a polygraph test but had not done so. The station said the sources could not say if she had refused to take the test.

Defendant Expected To Take Stand In Abortion Trial Today

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) — The defendant in what is believed to be one of the nation's first trials dealing with self-induced abortion charges was expected to take the stand in her own defense today.

Marla Elaine Pitchford, a red-haired, slender young woman who was reared about 25 miles from here, was indicted June 14 on a charge of performing an abortion on herself with a knitting needle.

Along with her mother and two other witnesses, Miss Pitchford was expected to testify in what attorneys predicted would be the last day of the trial, which began Monday in Warren Circuit Court.

If convicted, Miss Pitchford could be sentenced to 10 to 20 years in prison. The case, in which a woman is charged with performing an abortion on herself without involvement from physicians, is believed virtually unprecedented.

Miss Pitchford cried frequently during Tuesday's testimony, occasionally holding her head in her hands, her pale face hidden from some 70 courtroom spectators.

At one point, Judge J. Davis Francis called a 10 minute recess to allow the woman to regain her composure.

The prosecution, led by Commonwealth Attorney Morris Lowe, concluded its case Tuesday and the defense called 18 witnesses, one a psychiatrist who testified that Miss Pitchford was unable to control her actions at the time of the alleged abortion.

The former Western Kentucky University coed was in "a mental state where her conscious controls were gone, her ability to reason was gone, where the only thing left was her instinct to survive," testified Dr. Lawrence Greene, a psychiatrist with the Barren River Comprehensive Care Center.

Greene, who first examined Miss Pitchford Aug. 19, said the 22-year-old woman had a history of chronic depression, adding that she attempted suicide at the age of 18.

She was suffering from hysterical neurosis at the time of the alleged incident, Greene said. "For this reason, I feel she was not responsible for her actions."

Greene also questioned Miss Pitchford's physical and mental condition when she gave police the statement the morning after the fetus was delivered.

Earlier Tuesday, city police detective Martin Scott, a prosecution witness, read a statement which quoted Miss Pitchford as saying she attempted the abortion after being told at a Louisville abortion clinic that her pregnancy was too advanced for one to be performed there.

At the time of the alleged illegal abortion, Miss Pitchford was apparently 20 to 24 weeks pregnant.

The prosecution contended that Miss Pitchford, accompanied by her boyfriend, made the trip to Louisville June 7, spent the night there and returned to Bowling Green the following day.

After her examination at the abortion clinic, the statement quoted Miss Pitchford as saying, "I had no way out. I felt like dying. I was worried, upset and crying."

"When I woke up the next morning, I thought I could give myself an abortion. So I put a plastic knitting needle in my uterus and it worked. I didn't tell anyone what I had done," the statement continued.

On the return trip to Bowling Green, the prosecution said, Miss Pitchford became ill and was told by a doctor at a Bowling Green hospital to rest.

On June 9, Miss Pitchford entered the hospital again and a fetus was delivered that night, the prosecuting attorney said.

Dr. Royce Slezak, the physician attending Miss Pitchford, said she was suffering from a life-threatening uterus infection when she was admitted and was given a labor-inducing drug.

Deputy Coroner Cephus Hughes testified that he was called to the hospital after the fetus was delivered, examined the fetus in the hospital morgue and found with it a six inch, white plastic knitting needle.

In a surprise move, the prosecution called Dwight Mundy, identified as Miss Pitchford's boyfriend to testify Tuesday.

Mundy, who told the jury that he and Miss Pitchford became engaged in May, testified that he had nothing to do with the alleged illegal abortion.

Under questioning by Lowe, Mundy testified that he had never refused to marry Miss Pitchford, but he said under defense cross examination that "We discussed plans of marriage before this ever came about ... after I found out she was pregnant we no longer discussed plans of marriage."

Mundy, of Hendersonville, Tenn., was also a WKU student. He testified that he and Miss Pitchford went to abortion clinics in Nashville, Tenn., and Louisville, but acknowledged under questioning that it had been his idea to visit the clinics.

"I couldn't afford a child at that time," Mundy testified.

Mundy testified that he agreed last week to appear in court only after prosecutors promised him immunity from prosecution as an accomplice in the alleged abortion.

Lowe said Mundy was indicted on the accomplice charge last Wednesday but added that the indictment would be dropped.

The 1974 state law under which Miss Pitchford is being prosecuted says that subject to the provision of another statute "no person other than a licensed physician shall perform an abortion."

Anti-Litter Project Appears Successful

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — "The numbers were not shocking, but they were pretty substantial," commented Mark Ahearn of the state Division of Hazardous Material and Waste Management.

Ahearn was talking about the results of a pilot anti-litter project this summer in which high school students collected more than 12,400 bags of litter from along the roadsides of three Kentucky counties in just over one month.

Ahearn has just recently compiled statistics from the trial program in Henry, Morgan and Fayette counties which was conducted under a litter control bill passed by the 1978 General Assembly.

The program utilized high school students under the supervision of adults, generally teachers, who picked up debris along roadsides. The students and supervisors were paid from funds from a newly enacted tax on manufacturers of materials which are potential roadside litter.

Ahearn said more than 2,200 miles of road was cleaned — 1,488 miles in Fayette County, 387 miles in Henry County and 362 miles in Morgan County — by more than 100 student workers.

He said local program supervisors reported 4,174 bags of litter were collected in Morgan County, 4,740 bags in Fayette County and 3,505 bags in Henry County.

Ahearn said the Henry County youngsters separated aluminum cans and turned in more than 55,000 cans weighing over 2,300 pounds to a recycling center in Louisville. He said the money from the cans was used for a back-to-school picnic.

Similar recycling efforts were planned in Morgan and Fayette counties but ran into logistic problems.

The program began July 5 and was completed by Aug. 15.

Ahearn said the greatest amount of litter consisted of various beverage containers, both cans and bottles, followed by containers and bags related to the fast food-carry out business.

He said junk food wrappers of all kinds, "anything you can eat while moving," also made up a large part of the litter collected, along with newspapers and magazines.

"There was just about anything you could image," Ahearn said.

Ahearn said he expects the program to be continued next summer, probably in about six counties.

Founds Child Abuse Organization

Hank Snow Says He Can Still Remember Days As Abused Child

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A successful country music career and more than a half century separates Hank Snow from his days as an abused child, but he says he still recalls the anguish.

The veteran country crooner, 64, has founded an organization to fight child abuse. This Thursday, he has arranged a star-studded concert at Nashville's Grand Ole Opry House to raise funds for the anti-abuse effort.

"I was the victim of a broken home at the age of 8 and inherited a very cruel stepfather," Snow, a Canadian, said in an interview published Sunday. "I never had a child's life — my stepfather caused me to go out fighting my own way at age 12."

He never reported his stepfather, Snow said, because he was afraid it would break up the family.

"I was afraid I would wind up in foster homes like two of my sisters did," Snow said. "I loved my mother very much and did not want to be separated from her. She was in ill health and needed my stepfather for survival. She was at his mercy the same way I was."

Snow, then a fifth grader, left home and spent four years as a hand aboard deep-sea fishing boats before turning to music. He joined the Grand Ole Opry in 1950.

Since then, the accolades and hit songs have piled up, including "I'm Moving On," "Rhumba Boogie," "Beggars to a King" and "I've Been Everywhere."

He founded his organization, the Hank Snow International Foundation for Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect of Children Inc., two years ago following the much-publicized beating death of 4-year-old Melisha Gibson of Cleveland, Tenn. Ronald and Wanda Maddux, the girl's stepfather and mother, were later convicted in connection with the case and sentenced to prison.

A grandfather of two, Snow gave a concert and helped raise money after Melisha's death for a Cleveland facility aiding battered children.

"I think abuse changes a child's disposition and leaves a bitterness that will last the rest of his life," the singer said. "Some take it out on others and some are withdrawn in their way of life."

The foundation, Snow said, wants to train workers who would enter homes of abused children and help parents try to overcome their problem. His ultimate goal, the singer said, is building the Hank Snow Rescue Mission.

"The mission would take children in high-risk cases out of the home until the courts have made a complete investigation and determined if it is safe for them to go home or if they should be sent to a foster home," he said. "Foster homes are always the last straw."

"At this time, the foundation is working with hand-me-downs. We're in the crawling stage. But we have great goals for the future."

Joining Snow for Thursday's concert are, among others, Loretta Lynn, Conway Twitty, Boots Randolph, Skeeter Davis and Ernest Tubb.

Gas Prices, On Rise

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Louisville Automobile Club's Labor Day fuel gauge for Kentucky confirms that gasoline prices have gone up since the Fourth of July weekend.

The AAA reports prices are up about one and one-half cents a gallon at full-service stations and almost three cents at self-serve stations.

A survey of stations along major highways shows the average price at full-service stations is 68 cents for regular, 73.2 cents for premium and 71.8 cents for no-lead.

Prices at self-service pumps range from three and one-half to five cents less on the gallon than full-service stations, but still above the last holiday weekend prices.

Diesel fuel remains unchanged with an average price of 59.9 cents a gallon.

No major price change was found among geographic regions and the survey shows almost all stations will observe normal operating hours during the weekend.
